Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Burchfield (GB 2 326 453 A).

With respect to claim 1 and with particular reference to Figures 5 and 6,

Burchfield discloses a kit of parts comprising: a tubing component (second to the right in Figure 5) having at least two in-line sections with different external diameters; and a set of connection means (second to the left in Figure 5), each connection means having dimensions such that it may to be joined to the tubing component at a respective section and to enable connection to a pipe (leftmost in Figure 5) of the same diameter as the respective section.

With respect to claim 2, wherein each connection means comprises a locking ring. Each section of the connector is considered to comprise a locking ring.

With respect to claim 6 and with particular reference to Figures 5 and 6, Birchfield discloses kit of parts comprising: a tubing component (second to the right in Figure 5) having at least two in-line sections with different external diameters; and means for connecting (second to the left in Figure 5) any of the sections of the tubing component to a pipe (leftmost pipe in Figure 5) of the same diameter as the section of the tubing component.

With respect to claim 7, Burchfield discloses the kit of parts of claim 1 wherein each connection means is configured to join the tubing component at a respective section with a pipe of the same diameter without having the pipe inserted into the relevant tubing component.

With respect to claim 8, Burchfield discloses kit of parts of claim 1 wherein each connection means includes a first portion that is dimensioned to be joined to the tubing component at a respective section and a second portion adapted to enable connection to a pipe of substantially the same diameter as the respective tubing section.

With respect to claim 9, Burchfield discloses kit of parts of claim 1 wherein each connection means includes at least two ends, one end dimensioned to receive a respective tubing component section and an opposite end dimensioned to receive a pipe within the connection means.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4 and 5 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/2/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues "Burchfield also teaches a different structure than that claimed. The apparatus of Burchfield cannot be used to join pipes with the same diameter. For example, FIGs. 5 and 6 show that the two individual components used must be different sizes as one fits inside the other. For example, the left most component shown in FIG. 5 fits inside the right most component. Therefore the pipes to which these components are attached must also be of different diameters." Examiner disagrees. Claim 1 requires "each connection means having dimensions such that it may to be joined to the tubing component at a respective section and to enable connection to a pipe of the same diameter as the respective section," and claim 6 requires "means for connecting any of the sections of the tubing component to a pipe of the same diameter as the section of the tubing component." Burchfield's connection means in FIG. 6 receives a section of the tubing component that is of a smaller diameter than the connection means. As Burchfield states that his connection means may be cut to accommodate a given sized pipe, the leftmost two sections of Burchfield's connection means may be cut so as to allow the connection means that receives the tubing section component to connect a pipe of the same dimensions of the received tubing section on the opposite end of the connection means. This can apply to any of the sections of the tubing component.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
